Kohl sweeps polls

BONN (Reuter) — Chancellor Helmut Kohl, returned to power by almost half the electorate in Sunday's West German polls, tackles potential trouble today within his own government.

Kohl's Christian Democratic Union and its Bavarian sister-party, the Christian Social Union, had a landslide victory which raised their share of the vote to 48.8 per cent from the 44.5 per cent they achieved four years ago.

But their failure to gain an absolute majority left them still dependent on their Free Democratic coalition partners, a situation that promised trouble over the sharing of cabinet posts within the centre-right alliance.

Franz Josef Strauss, the leader of the right-wing Christian Social Union, has let it be known through his party that he wants to wrest the foreign ministry from Free Democratic party Chairman Hans-Dietrich Genscher.

But Genscher made it clear before the election that he intends to keep the post he has held for 11 years.

Strauss flies to Bonn today from his base in Munich to discuss the post-election situation with Kohl. He is expected to press for greater representation for his Christian Social Union.

Genscher's party contributed 53 of the 244 seats the coalition of Christian Democratic Union and the Christian Social Union possesses, while the Free Democratic party lost ground to emerge with 34 seats against the 53 it held in the last parliament.

Political observers expect a fierce battle to develop within the coalition, with the Free Democrats perhaps clinging to the foreign ministry at the expense of one or more of the other three portfolios it commands.

The portfolios are the Economics Ministry, held by Otto Lambdorff; the Agriculture Ministry, by Josef Ertl; and the Justice Ministry, by Hans Engelhard.

The biggest losers Sunday were the Social Democrats, who held power in West Germany until the Free Democrats defected to Kohl's conservative bloc last September.

The Social Democrats' share of the vote dropped to 38.2 per cent from 42.9, leaving them with 193 against their previous 218 parliamentary seats.

The most dramatic event, apart from the conservative landslide, was generally considered to be the feat of the environmentalist Greens in gaining 5.6 per cent of the vote to enter the Bonn parliament for the first time.

The party, whose ranks include members of the peace movement and opponents of nuclear arms, nuclear energy and industrial growth, won 27 seats.

Their leaders expressed regret that the Social Democrats had not done better and made it possible for the Greens to co-operate with them in toppling Kohl's government.

But they promised their supporters that they would continue campaigning in parliament and in the streets to keep NATO's U.S. Pershing 2 and cruise missiles off West German soil.

Political commentators said the decisive factor in Kohl's success was the electorate's greater trust in the ability of his government to revive the economy and combat unemployment, now affecting 2.5 million people or 10 per cent of the work force.

The economic factor outweighed any fears the government may have aroused by its pledge to allow NATO to station the new weapons in West Germany if the Soviet Union does not agree to scrap its SS-20 missiles.

Howard views law

Herald Staff Writer

TERRACE—This morning Skeena MLA Frank Howard was meeting with several lawyers to discuss the possibility of taking B.C. Timber to court.

Howard wants to see if a court can order the company to give up some of its cutting rights.

He says, "if there was ever an instance by B.C. Timber that it wanted to lose some of those rights, it came the other day with the simple announcement that while the Watson Island pulp mill would open, the logging and sawmill operations would stay shut down." The company will buy its chips elsewhere, he says.

"The crowning insult came from Forest Minister Tom Waterland," the MLA added, "on the very day of the announcement, Waterland was telling MacMillan Bloedel that it either had to reopen its mills or lose its timber rights."

Howard states he "is inclined to believe" the log-it-or-lose-it rule is not being applied to B.C. Timber because it is now owned by BCRIC, and "BCRIC was a political tool of Bennett."

"It's like Bennett protecting his illegitimate offspring," Howard says.

Formerly, he provincial government had to agree to be sued, but that power was removed when the NDP was the government, the MLA said. He is not certain if that power has been returned by the Socreds.

Hawke in a hurry

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Bob Hawke, Australia's next prime minister, says he wants to continue close relations with the United States and to move quickly to address domestic economic problems.

The Labor party candidate, who will be sworn in Friday, was elected in a landslide victory Saturday that ended the seven-year conservative coalition government of Malcolm Fraser.

Hawke said Sunday he will call a meeting of business, unions and state governments to consider the Australian economy, which is suffering 11-per-cent inflation and 9.3-per-cent unemployment.

Vote counting continued today and several seats in the House of Representatives remained undecided, but Labor appeared assured of a majority of between 21 and 29 seats in the 125-seat chamber.

The outcome in the Senate, which can block House bills, is less clear. Labor appears to have at least 29 seats, compared with 27 for Fraser's Liberal-National coalition, with four seats going to the Australian Democrats, two to independents and three still undecided.

Iran holds up OPEC

LONDON (AP) — The Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries postponed today's scheduled summit meeting until Tuesday after Iran said it would never agree to a cut in the cartel's $34 U.S.-a-barrel base price.

Iran also demanded Saudi Arabia slash its production to three million barrels daily. Iran is believed to want the same level for itself.

Oil Minister Humberto Calderon Bertl of Venezuela said the meeting scheduled for this afternoon was postponed until Tuesday morning at the request of the Iranians.

Oil Minister Subroto of Indonesia said: "We are still exchanging views."

Iran's position was announced by Iranian Oil Minister Mohammad Gharazi who told reporters that "Iran will never come down (on the base price), never."

He called for Saudi Arabia to reduce its production to three million barrels a day, down from four to five million barrels.

Gharazi said production — not price — was the only issue he wanted to discuss at the summit.

Iran is believed producing 2.5 million barrels daily and selling it for as low as $26 on the spot market.

Persian Gulf members of OPEC were reported to have agreed Sunday to cut the base price to as low as $28.50 to compete with African and North Sea producers, who last month cut their prices to $30.

But informed sources said non-OPEC member Britain, the big North Sea exporter, had advised the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries that a cut below $29.50 would trigger a further reduction in the North Sea price.

Today's gathering was the first by all 13 cartel members since price cuts last month by North Sea producers Britain and Norway and OPEC renegade Nigeria escalated the problems caused by sagging demand in a marketplace slowed by recession.

Iran, which did not attend the earlier meetings, was the only member to publicly demand that OPEC resist the pressure to cut its prices.

Last year, Iran cut its price to $30.20 with OPEC approval. Unofficially, however, it is believed to be selling its oil for as little as $26.

Saudi Arabia and its allies on the Arabian peninsula — Kuwait, the United Arab Emirates and Qatar — are demanding that OPEC drop its base price by at least $4 a barrel.

A lower base price would let OPEC boost sales, which are about 14 million barrels daily, the lowest in years.

The Saudis have warned that if the other OPEC members don't agree to reduce the base rate, they and their Persian Gulf allies would unilaterally slash prices.

That would spark a price war that could drive oil prices to $25 a barrel or lower, many economists believe. The result would help consumer countries, but seriously harm developing countries among the producers such as Mexico which risk defaulting on their foreign loans.

In Kuwait, the pressures from the glutted world market were underscored Sunday by figures showing oil revenues had dropped 33 per cent in 1982.

The central bank report said investment also had plunged by 32 per cent, arousing speculation that the country might have to introduce income taxes for the first time.

Energy disputed

TORONTO (CP) — The possibility of an energy policy dispute hung over federal and provincial finance ministers meeting here today to discuss how much they should stimulate the economy in their 1983 budgets.

The likelihood of lower world oil prices threatens to throw energy agreements between Ottawa and the producing provinces of Alberta, Saskatchewan and British Columbia into dispute and affect the revenue and spending plans of all 11 governments.

On the eve of the meeting, Saskatchewan Finance Minister Bob Andrew said the co-operative mood set at the last finance ministers' meeting in December "has slid away to some degree," partly due to the emerging fight over the future of domestic oil prices.

Andrew said he and his Alberta counterpart, Lou Hyndman, are taking "a common line" today in seeking a commitment from federal Finance Minister Marc Lalonde that domestic energy prices will not be rolled back.

The federal government has already said it believes prices should be rolled back under current federal-provincial agreements if world prices fall as expected.

In December, the finance ministers called a truce over past economic policy differences and pledged to try to co-ordinate budget strategies.

This CN Rail survey crew is doing preliminary work for eventual expansion of the Terrace rail yard. The plans are to lengthen the receiving and delivery tracks to accommodate the longer trains expected when shipments begin from the Northeast Coal Development. The increased traffic should begin in December 1983, according to Al Menard, CN's B.C. assistant manager of public affairs.

TERRACE—People laboring on the NEED and EBAP make work projects are being asked to attend a meeting at 7 p.m. on Tuesday, March 8 at the Carpenter's Hall.

The principal objective of the gathering is to allow the workers "an opportunity to air their grievances," according to a press release issued by Bill Goodacre, coordinator of the Terrace Unemployment Action Centre.

There have been a lot complaints, and rumours of complaints, circulating through Terrace concerning these two programs. This will be a first-hand opportunity for those "beefs" to be aired in an open public manner. Terrace was the first community in B.C. to get a NEED program.

Chairing the meeting will be Surinder Malhotra, president of the Kitimat-Terrace District Labor Council. He says that the labor council views NEED and EBAP workers as part of the unemployed. "If unemployment wasn't so high, these programs wouldn't be necessary," Malhotra says.

Those attending this meeting will be asked to form a committee to handle problems "on a collective basis" so that other NEED and EBAP workers will have a place to take their complaints to.

The meeting is being sponsored by the Unemployment Action Centre. For further information call 635-4431.

Economic gloom ending?

TORONTO (CP) — A few industries are starting to recall laid-off workers, after more than 18 months of unrelenting gloom on the employment front.

The recalls in the auto, steel and forest industries might not make an immediate dent in the unemployment rate — some other industries are still in decline — but they are regarded as a promising sign.

Paul Kovacs, an economist with the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, said he noticed a changeover just after Christmas, when "the good news started to outweigh the bad."

Manufacturing employment increased in January — for the first time in 18 months.

"It was not a big increase, but it was an increase," he said. "I think the worst is definitely over ... and the recalls are going to be greater than the layoffs for the next few months."

However, Dennis McDermott, president of the Canadian Labor Congress, said that with more than 1.5 million people still out of work, it would be cruel and unfair to create the impression that full economic recovery is just around the corner.

Kovacs agreed that recovery will be gradual.

Assuming that everything behaves itself — and interest rates do not go up — I think that by 1985 or 1986 we'll see things back the way they were before the recession," he said.

Declining interest rates are stimulating consumer demand for housing and cars, and that is having a beneficial effect on the forest and steel industries.

However, capital investment in new plants and equipment is expected to decline again this year, dampening the short-term outlook for nickel producers Falconbridge Ltd. and Inco Ltd., both of Toronto.

Both companies have recalled workers to resume production at their Sudbury, Ont., operations — Falconbridge in January and Inco in April — but neither expects to return to previous employment levels.

Workers angry

Herald Staff Writer

TERRACE—"Tens of thousands of unemployed B.C. workers are angry and dismayed over the government's blatant TV propaganda complete with jingles selling the idea that B.C.'s prosperity is just around the corner," a local labor group states.

The "B.C. Northwest District Council of Carpenters is condemning the government's spending of taxpayers' money on what must be described as election propaganda," says Glenn Bannister, council president.

"It is an insult to workers suffering from layoffs, cutbacks and hard economic times, that they are forced to pay for such pie-in-the-sky ads," Bannister added. "This campaign is attempting to gloss over the fact that this government has failed the working people miserably and will not impress northwest workers anymore than the usual 'blacktop politics' just announced."

Bannister says that "while highways improvements are welcome, few people other than owner-operators will be employed."

As local UIC benefits run out for people formerly employed in the local logging industry and welfare lines grow longer the news of the pulp mill opening at Watson Island comes as good news, although local reaction is mixed.

B.C. Timber's decision to start up the "A" pulp mill in Prince Rupert on a limited production basis at 60 per cent of total capacity sometime during the next month is one more sign that the worst is now over.

Due to the low price of pulp on the market the company has to use the lowest cost logs available and it will start with round logs, which are those logs lying in the water in front of the mill. They will also continue with local inventories.

There are no immediate plans to open any sawmills between Terrace and Hazelton and B.C. Timber and the union will have to put their energies into getting the cheapest possible sawlogs to make chips from.

The only way to do this is to get the ministry of forests to allow loggers to cut only good saw logs out of the woods. At present the ministry policy demands a clear cut policy of taking everything in a given area.

The news from B.C. Timber Friday may now dispel the view that the light at the end of the tunnel is really another train heading on a collision course.

Gamble leans right

OTTAWA (CP) — The photographs on the walls of John Gamble's office show why he worked so hard to force the Progressive Conservative leadership race which he entered Sunday.

There is a large photograph of Sir John A. Macdonald, two of John Diefenbaker and none of Joe Clark.

"I have never had a picture of Mr. Clark," the MP from York North said last week as he prepared to launch a long-shot bid for the party's top job as a voice for the far right wing.

Gamble, the first MP to call for a leadership convention more than three years ago, blames Clark, his advisers and "red Tory" allies for ignoring the party's grassroots by adopting misguided policies based on what they thought would get the Tories elected.

Rather than argue with detractors who call him a right-wing dinosaur, Gamble contends they would find wide public support for his views if they had the courage to ask.

The 49-year-old tax lawyer puffed on his pipe and ran down the list of beliefs that often made him and his ideological allies in caucus a thorn in Clark's side.

He is anti-bilingualism and anti-metric. He wants to bring back the noose, keep prisoners behind bars longer, chop limits on foreign investment, lower taxes and cut government spending by — among other things — stopping foreign aid except during national disasters and ending support for the CBC.

All that flows from an underlying belief government, especially the "socialistic regime" of Prime Minister Trudeau, has intruded too far into Canadians' lives.

Government's role is no more than creating a climate where "the harder you work, the more you produce, the more remains for you," he argues. And most Canadians agree, he adds.

"Let's find out what the people in Canada genuinely want. Let's ask them. When have we ever done that?"

The Tories must listen and map clear policies based on the public will, he says.

"The people who decide policies for parties largely are paid individuals who are alleged experts in the area, advisers who concoct schemes they think they will sell. I think it's important to go to the public and ask the public what they believe."

Born in Perth, Ont., Gamble grew up in St. Catharines and Niagara Falls. After university and law school in Toronto, he joined the federal public service for four years as a tax lawyer for the National Revenue Department, then went into private practice.

After moving to Markham, he made his first run for a Commons seat in 1979 and beat former defence minister Barney Danson for the right to represent York North on the northern border of Metropolitan Toronto.

He grabbed media attention for his efforts to get rid of Clark and for blocking a Commons motion to send condolences to Yoko Ono after John Lennon was shot in 1981. Lennon was a good musician, Gamble argued, but he was also "leader of a drug culture" that ruined thousands of lives.

Gamble was among a group of MPs that started a movement to draft Peter Lougheed.

Tax discounting expected to triple this year

TORONTO (CP) — The number of taxpayers opting for tax discounting, where they collect only 85 per cent of their income-tax refund but get the money immediately from tax-preparation companies, will more than triple this year. The federal Department of Consumer and Corporate Affairs estimates about 200,000 taxpayers will opt for discounting this year, up from 62,000 last year.

"It is in everybody's best interest — except the discounters — not to discount their income tax... but we'd rather see the good guys than the bad guys doing it," said a department spokesman.

The state of the economy and the increased promotion of discounting are two reasons for the expected increase.

"It is the economic conditions — more people are in immediate need of money," said Wallace Harrigan, assistant tax director at Toronto-based Beneficial Finance Co. of Canada.

The Department of National Revenue has advised taxpayers not to expect refunds before the end of April. The department normally sends refunds by the middle of March but this year they will be later because the government says it cannot send them until the budget bill is passed.

The surge in the discounting business is already apparent because many people who were unemployed for all or part of last year received their T4 slips at the end of January and many companies sent T4 slips to employees before the Feb. 28 deadline, Harrigan said.

Brian Theal, central Toronto manager for income-tax preparer H and R Block (Canada) Ltd., said his company is offering tax discounting for the first time at 40 of its 871 offices across the country.

In Toronto offices where the option is available, 25 per cent of clients are choosing discounting.

"It's going exceptionally well," Theal said. "At first, it was mostly people on welfare who could claim child tax credits and rent rebates. Now we're into the T4 situation and people with good income are doing it because they want the money now."

A spokesman for the Consumer Affairs Department said the 15 per cent of the estimated refund that discounters keep is equal to a 62.8-per-cent annual rate of interest. DON'T OFFER MORE

Harrigan said despite competition in the field no discounters have offered more than the 85 per cent required by law because the profit margin is not large and a heavy business volume is required to make it worthwhile.

The 1978 Tax Rebate Discounting Act was brought in to help the government crack down on discounters who sometimes kept up to 50 per cent of expected tax refunds.

The National Anti-Poverty Organization has asked the federal government to also watch the number of people choosing to discount whose refund comes solely from the child tax credit.

Organization executive director Patrick Johnston said the concern is low-income people, who can claim the maximum child tax credit of $343 a child, are handing "an inordinate amount" of money to discounters.

Soviets spy on Erope

LONDON (AP) — A crop of Soviet agents has sprouted in Western Europe recently — evidence, intelligence experts claim, of a Kremlin campaign to steal the West's technological secrets and details of its newest fighter planes.

At least 10 Soviet spies have been expelled from Western Europe in as many weeks this year. Last year, at least 13 were ordered out.

The total could be higher because some Soviet agents are quietly shipped home after they have been discovered, say Western European intelligence sources, who agreed to interviews on condition they would not be named.

They said the main espionage targets appear to have been high-tech hardware and the secrets of the West's most sophisticated supersonic strike planes, the General Dynamics F-16 Falcon and the Panavia Tornado developed jointly by Britain, West Germany and Italy.

The Soviet spies are alleged to have launched the high-tech hunt after President Reagan — saying Moscow was responsible for repression in Poland — cut off the export of advanced technology to the U.S.S.R. on Dec. 29, 1981.

Although the ban was revoked in November, 1982, western high-technology sales to the East bloc continue to exclude equipment that would contribute significantly to Soviet military potential.

"U.S. technology, whether it's military or purely industrial, is spy target No. 1 for foreign intelligence operations," said William Webster, director of the U.S. Federal Bureau of Investigation.

"I don't think there's been another time in our history when our country has been under such a sophisticated espionage assault."

Most authoritative sources questioned by The Associated Press said they believe that as many as 40 per cent of the Soviet diplomats and trade mission officials in the West work secretly for the KGB, the secret police, or its military counterpart, the GRU.

Much of the Soviet activity in the U.S. centres on Silicon Valley in northern California — named after the silicon micro-circuitry important to computer hardware, the sources said. Many of the 11,000 companies dealing in classified technology are based in the valley.

But the Soviet Union is also making a determined drive to gain access to technology through U.S. subsidiaries or related companies in Western Europe.

Denmark was described as one such target. One highly-placed intelligence source in Copenhagen, the Danish capital, claimed Soviet operatives there have become markedly more active and "more serious" in recent months.

He said their activities include "political blackmail" — an apparent reference to efforts by Soviet officials to compromise political and industrial figures to obtain technological secrets.

Hopson has golden dreams

TIMMINS, Ont. (CP) — When his friends take off in the summer for a weekend of fishing, Dick Hopson goes looking for gold.

He packs a change of clothes, his prospector's hammer, a few tools, and heads into the bush to one of two mining claims he has staked about 80 kilometres outside this Northern Ontario city.

Hopson, 51, is one of many part-time prospectors who earn a little extra money developing mining claims while dreaming of the one big find that everyone else has somehow overlooked.

"Some guys like to go fishing and they've got to pay money to do it, but I get money from prospecting and do something I like to do," says Hopson, who has been chipping away at the Canadian Shield since he got out of the army.

"I didn't know what to do with myself so I took off for Val d'Or, Que., and started prospecting in the spring of '58. I started with a few old guys, doing all the dirty work, but that's how you learn. I've been at it ever since."

In a good year, Hopson makes about $10,000 from working weekends and part of his summer holiday, says Hopson, a father of three.

"It varies though. Sometimes it just pays beer money and sometimes it pays quite a bit."

Things haven't changed much for freelance prospectors since the gold rushes of a century ago, he says. "Nowadays, guys might have more education, but it's still one guy out in the bush, taking samples, digging trenches. The companies that use helicopters and computers aren't real prospectors."

Hopson, a heavy equipment operator at Kidd Creek Mines Ltd. in Timmins, now works two properties. One is seven claims — a claim is generally 16 hectares (40 acres) — and the other is nine.

He maintains control of the claims as long as he works them each year, but they revert to the province if a specified amount of work is not done.

These days he's looking for gold, he says, but it could be any of the precious or base metals during periods when the economy is better.

And it's not only a big find that can be profitable. Just showing some potential in a property means a mining company might be interested in buying the claim, Hopson says.

Staking a claim on a rumor that one of the big companies wants to expand can also be profitable because it costs only $10 to file a claim after driving in four corner posts to mark off the area.

Most of the properties he works in the region have been covered before, "but you can't let that discourage you," Hopson says.

"You've just got to find a new technique, a new idea. They (earlier prospectors) couldn't have seen every inch."

A bookcase at his Timmins home filled with hundreds of mining manuals and reports is evidence of just how seriously Hopson takes his hobby.

"You've got to keep up; anyone who doesn't will go the way of the dodo bird."

It costs only $5 a year for a prospector's licence and being an insider can help on the stock market as well, he says.

"I work for myself when it comes to mining — myself and the stock market."

Women demonstrate

Thousands of women across Canada took to the streets during the weekend in demonstrations marking the start of a week-long celebration of International Women's Day.

In Toronto, a crowd estimated by police at 6,000 wound its way through the centre of the city Saturday chanting slogans and brandishing placards that demanded free abortion clinics, better pay and more day care. The demonstrators also were protesting what they said was "the oppression of women."

It was the sixth march in the city to celebrate International Women's Day and organizers said it exceeded those of previous years because of concern about the economy.

In Montreal, a colorful procession of about 7,000 women, men and children protested the deteriorating conditions in the public sector, where most of the workers are women.

Leslie Lee, a teacher and one of the march organizers, said government slashing of public-sector budgets was a direct attack on women, who are seeing their salaries and benefits cut.

"They want us to go back home," she said. "They want us to go back 20 years."

Organizers said the event was a huge success, with participation more than double last year's march.

All About PEOPLE

After digging up half of Montreal, four men found $50,000 worth of diamonds by following the clues in a treasure hunt that led them to a flag pole in Old Montreal.

Brothers Guy, Yves and Luc Sanscartier and a friend, Alain Pilon, all in their 20s, listened daily for two months to the clues broadcast by two local radio stations, searching along with thousands of others in the promotional scheme.

They eventually came to the flag pole in the Place Vauquelin, near city hall, where they found the treasure.

"For two months we dug up practically everything in the centre of town," said one of the brothers. "We even looked inside the hoarding posts in Old Montreal and emptied the dirt from the big tree pots that the city sets out here and there."

"People laughed at us because they didn't understand what was happening. But now we have the last laugh."

A 95-year-old Toronto woman, robbed by two teenagers last week, is still not afraid to walk the streets of downtown Toronto.

Edith Dench, who is nearly blind, has a bad heart and lungs and a sore right foot, went to morning church services Sunday and the wrestling matches at Maple Leaf Gardens at night — just as she has been doing for nearly 80 years.

Last week's robbery was the third time in three years Dench had been robbed. The teenagers stole her bank book, hospital card, wrestling tickets and $55 cash as she was coming home from the bank.

After people read about the robbery in the newspapers, about $200 was donated to Dench. And when she went to the Gardens about the wrestling tickets, she received three passes.

Empress Nagako of Japan, a poet, musician and artist, turned 80 Sunday, making her and Emperor Hirohito the first imperial Japanese couple to reach that milestone in nearly 2,000 years.

Hirohito will be 82 in April. They have been married 59 years.

The empress has reduced her public appearances since a hip ailment in 1977 but is in stable condition and good health, says the imperial household.

Comedian John Belushi had "an obsessive problem of overindulging," his widow says, but "the image of him as a party animal is incorrect."

Judy Jacklin Belushi also said she feels her husband's drug death in a Hollywood bungalow one year ago caused many people to re-evaluate drug use at parties. Belushi was found dead March 5, 1982, from a drug overdose.

She said friends and fans have told her during the last year that Belushi's death has caused them to take a look at their own actions.

"A lot of people have told me they've gone into both Alcoholics Anonymous and Narcotics Anonymous because of John."

Outsiders have always told jokes about Des Moines, Iowa, but now a native who fears residents may take the city too seriously has written a booklet asking insiders to laugh at themselves.

Let's Keep Des Moines A Private Joke is the title of Dan Hunter's 30-page look at the funny side of Des Moines.

"Culture abounds in Des Moines, especially if you include Mexican restaurants and do-it-yourself car washes," the 29-year-old Hunter writes. "The denizens and doyens of the arts have banded together to form bowling leagues and other associations to encourage the arts."

Hunter says it's absolutely imperative that newcomers master local weather phrases such as "Well, it's good for the corn," and "Be it's hot out at the fair today."

Pope John Paul appeals for end to conflicts

GUATEMALA CITY (Reuters) — Pope John Paul arrived Sunday night in military-ruled Guatemala, where the president last week ignored Vatican pleas to spare the lives of six alleged leftist guerrillas.

The firing squad executions, which the pontiff has condemned with "immense pain, have cast a shadow over the visit."

But the Pope did not mention them as he shook hands with President Efraín Ríos Montt upon arriving from San Salvador.

As in the neighboring war-torn country of El Salvador, the Pope appealed for peace, justice and reconciliation in Central America's bloody internal conflicts.

"In the name of all the victims, I want to ask all forces of goodwill to mobilize to achieve peaceful social coexistence, the fruit of justice, and reconciliation," he said, as firecrackers exploded in the background.

The Pope earlier prayed for peace in El Salvador, and President Alvaro Magaña chose the occasion to announce that presidential elections would be held before the end of the year.

Before the six executions, the Pope's visit was under the strains of death threats from ultra-rightists and of a bitter rivalry between the traditional Roman Catholic Church and a rapidly growing Protestant influence. That influence is personified by the country's most outstanding convert, Ríos Montt, a born again Christian.

But the Pope stuck to his plans to use Guatemala as the base for the second part of his eight-country tour of Central America and Haiti. He is to spend a full day in Guatemala today and returns Tuesday from a visit to Honduras.

Ríos Montt quoted the Bible to welcome the Pope, comparing his visit with "cool water for the thirsty," and expressing hope that the pontiff would learn during his stay "the sad story of a small country."

He lashed at "the political and economic transnationalists which want to solve our problems by annihilating us among brothers."

The Pope will say mass today and address peasants and Indians in Quetzaltenango, on the edge of the eastern mountains where Ríos Montt has declared a war on leftist guerrillas, prompting accusations of widespread human rights violations.

The guerrillas are observing a week-long ceasefire in honor of the Pope. The Guatemalan government has yet to reply to the truce.

In El Salvador, the Pope appealed to warring parties to put aside hatred and work for justice, saying the situation, despite the estimated 42,000 dead of the three-year-old civil war, was not irreparable.

He appeared to condemn extremism on both sides by praying for peace at the tomb of murdered Archbishop Oscar Romero and then lashing out at those ideologies which, he said, see struggle as the motor of history and hamper dialogue.

The 1980 killing of Romero, a trenchant critic of government excesses and human rights violations, was blamed by human rights groups on a rightist death squad.

The Pope's car was surrounded by hundreds of troops, and helicopter gunships criss-crossed the sky in a show of heavy security after the Salvadoran government said leftist guerrillas planned to kill the pontiff. But the day came to an end without reports of incidents.

Thousands expected to greet Queen

VANCOUVER (CP) — Organizers say it's the hottest ticket in town — even though more than 30,000 have been given away.

That's how many people are expected in the stands at the new, partially-completed B.C. Place Stadium here Wednesday when Queen Elizabeth reads an invitation to 155 nations to visit Expo 86.

It will be the best opportunity for the most people at one time to see the Queen during her month-long tour of North America but the tickets were snatched up some time ago. People will be coming in buses from as far away as Nanaimo and Kamloops to fill the stadium seats.

There will be entertainment as the crowd waits for the Queen to arrive and then she will read the invitation to Expo 86 that will be transmitted via telephone lines directly to embassies and consulates in at least 155 countries.

Tour organizers are preparing for another huge crowd Tuesday when the royal yacht Britannia docks in Victoria and the lawns of the legislative buildings become the site of a giant tea party. As many as 30,000 people are expected at that time to watch the Queen stroll a couple of hundred yards from where the yacht docks in Victoria's Inner Harbor to the lawns.

The royal couple's month-long tour of North America, that began in Jamaica Feb. 13, ends with the three-day visit in B.C. The last time the Queen visited B.C. was in 1971, the 100th anniversary of the province's entry into confederation. She spent 10 days here with Philip and Princess Anne.

This tour included the 56-year-old monarch's first visit to California and the glamor state didn't let her down. Five hundred Hollywood stars turned out at a gala for her. The Queen, in her only overnight stay off the yacht Britannia on this tour, took a royal camping trip to Yosemite Valley National Park on the weekend.

She also saw demonstrators protesting Britain's presence in Ireland but generally she was met by friendly, enthusiastic crowds.

The weather turned against the tour in California and rain washed out the Queen's much-publicized, scheduled horseback ride with President Ronald Reagan last week.

Tour officials are hoping B.C.'s weather will cooperate, especially for the first day of the B.C. leg of the tour when the tea party threatens to turn into a mud bowl if it rains.

During her visit in B.C. the Queen will take part in or preside over at least 26 activities in Nanaimo, Kelowna and Vernon as well as Victoria and Vancouver. Prince Philip has his own schedule of activities and will visit Nanaimo and Kamloops.

The Queen will dedicate two new bells at Christ Church Cathedral in Victoria, open an Amazon gallery at the Vancouver Public Aquarium, watch an Indian dance at the University of B.C.'s Museum of Anthropology and unveil a plaque at the university's hospital. In Vernon the Queen attends a luncheon marking the city's 90th year of incorporation.

The most exclusive event of her visit here is a dinner she and Philip host aboard the Britannia for 56 invited guests. The guest list hasn't been released yet — tour officials say that's so last minute guests who have been invited because others declined, aren't embarrassed.

Philip visits at the Royal Vancouver Yacht Club, meets with Outward Bound officials and attends a luncheon in Kamloops, as part of his visit.

The royal couple returns by airplane to London early Friday morning.

Barrett's back patted

WINNIPEG (CP) — Manitoba New Democrats ended their three-day convention Sunday with a bright, witty speech and pat on the back from Dave Barrett, NDP leader in British Columbia.

Barrett was introduced to more than 700 cheering delegates as Canada's next NDP premier — company for Premier Howard Pawley of Manitoba, the only premier who carries the party flag.

In a speech greeted with enthusiasm by delegates, Barrett said it's time Canadians were handed a new deal by their governments to put the nation's three million unemployed back to work.

Barrett described Manitoba as an oasis in the middle of an economic desert and he had special praise for the 1983-84 budget introduced by the Pawley government.

"It is a shining beacon of responsibility, both social and economic, that every other province should be following," he said.

The NDP budget concentrates on job creation and despite a burgeoning provincial deficit expected to hit $579 million in the coming fiscal year, Pawley and his government will increase spending by almost 16 per cent.

Barrett, a former B.C. premier who now leads the province's official opposition, attacked federal economic policies, Prime Minister Trudeau and Canadian banks in particular.

He said the banks have been making usurious profits at a time Canadians are being asked to make personal sacrifices.

The B.C. politician repeated his party's opposition to testing the American cruise missile in Canada.

One of the new items on the agenda at the convention that threatened to upset the apple cart was a resolution calling on the government to set up reproductive-health clinics that would perform abortions along with other procedures.

Health Minister Larry Desjardins threatened to resign if the party adopted a stand that could be viewed as pro-abortion.

However, the issue was defused when the resolution was reworded to ensure the clinics would conform to the law on abortions.

While Desjardins, a Roman Catholic, opposes abortion on a personal basis, he has said as health minister he must see the law is obeyed. Abortions are permitted if approved by a special committee and performed at accredited hospitals.

As the convention got under way Friday, federal NDP leader Ed Broadbent, Pawley and Saskatchewan NDP leader Allan Blakeney were telling a news conference about the party's plan to preserve the Crown's pass freight rate for moving grain.

The NDP wants the Crow rate left alone with subsidies of $390million a year to go to the railways for carrying grain.

But the NDP leaders said further investments to improve rail lines should be made on condition the public get a share in CP Rail, now owned by private shareholders.

They said their plan would do as much for the economy as one proposed by Transport Minister Jean-Luc Pepin without placing a heavier burden on farmers. Broadbent also spoke at the Manitoba convention.

TERRACE — A 19 car westbound CN Rail freight train, derailed at Priestly on March 4, tearing up 800 feet of track and forcing the westbound passenger train to be halted in Prince George.

Passengers between Prince Rupert and Prince George were bused. The track is expected to be reopened today at 10 a.m.

There were no personal injuries. The cause of the accident was a burnt out axle journal, sometimes referred to as a "hot box". The train carried 16 cars of grain, one of salt, one of diesel fuel, and one of lube oil.

Lions bantams win zone title series

Kitimat's Lions bantam reps got a late goal from Brad Thiessen Saturday night that gave them a 6-5 final-game win over Terrace Inland Kenworth Bantams and the Northwest-Yukon zone title in the final game of their zone championship series.

Thiessen's goal, his second of the game, capped a comeback that erased a 5-3 Terrace lead and took the title away from former champion Terrace.

The win means the B.C.

provincial championship tournament, which begins March 22 in Terrace, will be an eight-team event, with Kitimat taking the zone-champion spot and Terrace holding down the host berth. Kitimat earlier won the Friday night game 7-0. Terrace took the second game of the series Saturday afternoon by a 4-2 score.

Friday night, Lions got shutout goaltending from Mark Fitzpatrick and two goals from David Bowles on their way to the win.

Scoring singles for Kitimat in the game were Hugh Mitchell, Scott Feltis, Kevin Graham, Lyle Grant and Adam Taylor.

The noon game Saturday was an exciting one, with Kelson Crouse and Lawrence Stella giving Terrace a 2-1 first-period lead. Bowles answered with his first goal in the first for Kitimat.

Neilson Thomas scored the only goal of the second period for Terrace as the two teams played the period dead even. Bowles scored his second of the game early in the third period to bring Kitimat to within a goal, but Thomas's second goal of the game midway through the period held up as the insurance goal, despite a lot of pressure from Kitimat. Mark Prall played very well in the Terrace goal, making several excellent stops to keep Terrace ahead before Thomas scored his second goal. Kitimat outshot Terrace 54-36 in the game.

The final game was another close one, as Kitimat took a 3-0 lead in the first before Terrace got one back. In the second, Terrace scored three unanswered goals and led 4-3 at the end of 40 minutes. Kenworth made it 5-3 early in the third period but Kitimat began to press and tied the game before the midway point. Thiessen's winning goal, his second of the game, came with 2:30 left to play in the game.

Other Kitimat scorers were Bowles Mitchell, Graham and Feltis. Scoring for Terrace were Lawrence Stella, who had three goals and two assists, Mark Greyeyes, who had a goal and two assists, and Brent Petch, who scored once. Thomas assisted on two goals.

As zone champions, Kitimat will play their first game of the provincial tournament at 10:30 a.m. on Tuesday, March 22. Terrace's first game is against Kitimat at 6 p.m. March 22.

Legion Bombers blast Rupert, in finals against Totem Ford

Kitimat's Legion Bomber midgets didn't have much trouble with Prince Rupert's midget reps on the weekend in their Northwest-Yukon semifinal playoff series.

Kitimat won Friday's game 9-5 and Saturday's 17-2 to earn a berth in the zone final against Terrace's Totem Ford midgets, who have the weekend off.

In Friday's game, Mike

Legg and Glen Robinson each had three goals, Paulo Taveras had two and Nav Shergill got the other in a game that wasn't as close as the score. Kitimat pretty well had their own way throughout the game, using the home-ice advantage to take an easy win.

Saturday's result was even worse for the visitors as Kitimat just blasted Prince Rupert with nine players sharing the scoring.

Breck Moore was the top goal-getter for Kitimat with four, while Tracy Camazzola had a hat trick and Taveras, Legg and Darren Schikowski each had two. Scoring one goal each were Joe Kotai, Allan Kotia, Ian Buick and Kevin Busby.

Kitimat faces a stiffer challenge this weekend when they travel to Terrace to take on Totem Ford, who are favored to take the zone title away from Legion in the three-game series. Game times have been announced for the series at this time.

Canucks raise hopes, sweep Jet series

A quirk in the National Hockey League schedule which paired Vancouver and Winnipeg Jets in three consecutive games was a blessing for the Canucks who swept the mini-series and vaulted into third place in the Smythe Division.

After beating the Jets 3-0 last Wednesday night at Winnipeg, the Canucks returned home and won 5-4 Saturday night and 6-2 Sunday.

Darcy Rota sparked the Canucks with two-goal efforts in both weekend games. He had five goals and three assists in the three games.

In other games Sunday, it was Boston Bruins 6 Edmonton Oilers 3, Philadelphia Flyers 3 Pittsburgh Penguins 3, Buffalo Sabres 6 Detroit Red Wings 4, Chicago Black Hawks 5 Montreal Canadiens 4, Quebec Nordiques 7 Hartford Whalers 3, Minnesota North Stars 8 Los Angeles Kings 3, and New Jersey Devils 6 New York Rangers 4.

On Saturday, it was Boston 6 Chicago 3, Quebec 10 Hartford 3, Montreal 6 St. Louis Blues 5, New York Islanders 5 New Jersey 1, Washington Capitals 4 Philadelphia 3, Edmonton 6 Toronto Maple Leafs 3, Minnesota 4 Detroit 1, and Los Angeles 4 Calgary Flames 4.

The Canucks are one point ahead of the Jets and two up on Los Angeles in the Smythe Division with a game in hand on both clubs.

Rota's linemates Thomas Gradin and Stan Smyl also scored for Vancouver as the line amassed nine points. Gary Lupul and Marc Crawford added the other Canuck goals.

Brian Mullen and Morris Lukowich replied for the Jets.

Brutus 5 Oilers 2
Rick Middleton scored his 30th career goal 34 seconds into the game and later gave Boston a 3-0 lead with his 37th goal of the season. Bruce Crowder, Tom Fergus and Luc Dufour scored once for the Bruins. Wayne Gretzky, with his 59th of the season, and Ken Linseman replied for the Oilers.

Flyers 5 Penguins 3
Ron Flockhart and Paul Holmgren scored second-period goals and Ilkka Sinisalo scored twice to lead Philadelphia. Brian Propp also scored for the Flyers. The Pittsburgh scorers were Paul Gardner, Paul Baxter and Randy Carlyle.

Sabres 6 Red Wings 4

Hawks 5 Canadiens 4

Denis Savard scored twice and added an assist to pass the 100-point mark for the second straight season for Chicago, four points ahead of Minnesota for the Norris Division lead. Bill Gardner, Denis Cyr and Al Secord also scored for Chicago, which improved its first-place record to 39-19-11. Chris Nilan, Doug Wickenheiser, Mats Naslund and Bill Root scored for Montreal, 35-20-12 and two points ahead of third-place Buffalo in the Adams Division.

Nordiques 7 Whalers 3
Peter Stastny scored three goals and his younger brother Anton had a goal and two assists to lead Quebec. Louis Sleigher, with two, and Wally Weir also scored for the Nordiques. Ron Francis scored the Hartford goal.

North Stars 5 Kings 3
Steve Payne and George Ferguson scored three goals each for Minnesota, and Dino Ciccarelli and Bobby Smith added singles. Marcel Dionne, with his 46th of the season, Larry Murphy and John Paul Kelly countered for the Kings.

Blades get closer

Saskatoon Blades reduced their number for clinching the Eastern Division title to two Sunday with an 8-1 victory over Brandon Wheat Kings in Western Hockey League action before 3,066 fans.

Any combination of Blades victories or Regina Pats losses totalling two will give Saskatoon the pennant.

In other games Sunday, the Pats defeated Winnipeg Warriors 7-2, Kamloops Oilers beat Portland Winter Hawks 11-5, Medicine Hat Tigers trounced Prince Albert Raiders 10-4, Seattle Breakers beat Kelowna Wings 8-5 and Calgary Wranglers fought Lethbridge Broncos to a 1-1 tie.

On Saturday, Victoria Cougars trounced Nanaimo Islanders 10-1 and Prince Albert beat Brandon 7-4.

In Saskatoon, Blades coach Daryl Lubiniecki said defence was the key to the win.

Perry Gancher, Larry Korchiński each scored two goals to lead the Blades while Ross Lambert, Roger Kortko, Todd Strube and Dale Henry completed the attack.

Darwin Penny scored the lone Wheat King goal.

Regina 7 Winnipeg 2

Taylor Hall scored two goals for the Pats and John Bekkers, Gary Leeman, Kurt Wickenheiser, Dale Derkatch and Jayson Meyer added singles. Jim Mollard and John Benna had a goal each for Winnipeg.

David Kirkaldy of Skeena's Tsimshians grade 8 boys basketball team drives around a Mount Elizabeth player during their loser's round semifinal game Saturday afternoon in the zone final tournament. Skeena won this game 35-34 but lost to Booth in the final game. Mount Elizabeth hosted the zone final.

Booth, MESS split zone grade 8 basketball

Mount Elizabeth Secondary School and Booth Memorial Junior Secondary School split the grade 8 zone basketball titles on the weekend, with Booth winning the boys' and Mount Elizabeth taking the girls'.

Booth's win in the grade 8 boys' tournament completed a sweep of boys' basketball zone championships for Prince Rupert schools. Earlier, Booth Ravens won the junior A boys title and Prince Rupert Rainmakers won the senior AA boys championship.

Booth took the grade 8 title with an 84-37 win over Skeena Tsimshians in the final game after winning both of their preliminary games in the double-knockout tournament. Booth had earlier beaten Thornhill 60-11 in the first round and taken a 72-43 win over Mount Elizabeth's host team in the semifinal.

Skeena, meanwhile, lost their first game to Thornhill 35-33, beat Nisga 51-29 and then beat Thornhill on the loser's side 45-42 in overtime. Skeena made the final with a 35-34 win over Mount Elizabeth in the loser's round semifinal.

Mount Elizabeth started their tournament with a 51-33 win over Nisga.

On the girls' side, host Mount Elizabeth went undefeated through three games to take the zone title with a 53-44 win over Booth in the final game. Mount Elizabeth beat Skeena in the winner's round semifinal 27-23 and beat Nisga 33-10 in their first game of the tournament.

Booth lost their first game of the tournament to Skeena 25-25, but beat Skeena 25-20 in the loser's round semifinal. Booth beat Thornhill to make the semifinal against Skeena. In other games for Thornhill, the team lost its first game of the tournament to Skeena but beat Nisga 35-27 in their next match.

Juneau dumps Kitimat twice

The number-one ranked girls basketball team from Alaska won two games from Kitimat's Mount Elizabeth Orca on the weekend on a swing through northwestern Canada.

Juneau took a 64-55 win over Kitimat Saturday, with Leslie Knight scoring 14 points to pace the winners. Angie Williams had 18 and Barbie Stöckman scored 21 in a losing cause.

Sunday, Knight had a game-high 18 for Juneau while Williams scored 10 and Marie Gubbels had 15 for Kitimat in a 55-57 Juneau win.

Juneau was scheduled to play Caledonia Karmodees this morning at 10:30 a.m. at Caledonia.

Kitimat, meanwhile, is headed for Burnaby's Simon Fraser University this week to play in the B.C. provincial AA girls basketball championship tournament. Kitimat's first game is against number-one ranked Salmon Arm Wednesday night.

Roberts wins 48 kg wrestling

Two area wrestlers were top finishers in the B.C. provincial high school wrestling finals on the weekend in Prince George. Craig Roberts of Kitwanga repeated as provincial champion despite moving up a weight division when he won the 41 kilogram title in the meet.

Roberts won the 38 kilo title last year. Doug Forsyth of Hazelton was second in the 84 kilo event at the finals, which were held at College Heights Secondary School in Prince George. Forsyth is a grade 12 student at Hazelton Secondary School, and is first-year wrestler.

Other results from the meet include Kitwanga's Tony Derrick, who placed 6th in the 45 kilo class, Phil Wilson of Hazelton, who was fourth in the 90 kilo class, and Tom Lee of Hazelton, who took 5th in the 38 kilo class.

Both Hazelton and Kitwanga finished in the top 20 teams in the province, with Hazelton taking 14th spot and Kitwanga placing 15th. Smithers took 13th place provincially, with Dave Beaubien taking third in the 75 kilo class, Daryl Simpson taking third in the 51 kilo class and Werner Baron taking fourth in the 70 kilo class.

Port Alberni from Vancouver Island won the provincial title, becoming the first school not from the lower Mainland ever to win the championship.

Omineca edges Kitimat in TCHL allstar tourney final

Omineca Commercial Allstars and Kitimat Commercial Allstars played a fast, entertaining final game in the 10th annual Terrace Commercial Hockey tournament Sunday afternoon, but Terrace's Omineca team came away with a 7-5 win and the Daily Herald trophy.

Omineca and Kitimat both finished on top of their round-robin divisions and both took fairly easy wins in semifinal play Sunday morning, but the final game was close all the way through, with a one-goal lead the most either team could take right up until the final two minutes of the game.

Kitimat B finished third, taking a narrow 7-6 win over Cassiar in the consolation final.

Individual awards were given to Bob Dempster of Terrace, who won the tournament's most valuable player award, Doug Richey of Terrace, who won the scoring title with 11 goals and eight assists; Mike Stepanovicius of Kitimat Allstars, who was given the best defenceman award; and Cliff Shetstebloff of Kitimat B, who was the tournament's outstanding goalender.

Most sportsmanlike team was the Kitimat B allstars. The final game was tied 2-2 after the first period and 4-4 after the second period as the teams exchanged goals and the lead throughout the game.

It wasn't until the third period that Terrace took the lead for good. Rich Kolner broke down the right wing and scored with a low shot to give Omineca a 5-4 lead, and Lance Legouffe got his second of the game with 3:26 left to put Terrace up 6-4.

Terrace took an unlikely too-many-men penalty with 2:36 left to play that gave Kitimat a chance to pull within one, which they did when Stepanovicius scored at 18:16. Kitimat pulled the goalie with 1:21 left to play and had a couple of good chances, but couldn't score, and Doug Thomson got an empty-net goal with 15 seconds left to give Terrace the win and the $1200 first-prize money.

Kitimat took home $750 for second place, while Kitimat B won $500.

Other Terrace scorers in the final were Ken Wideman, Darryl Mallett and Darcy Mallett. For Kitimat, it was Brad Owen, Rick Wakita, Ron Wakita, Andre Lenchuka and Stephanovicius.

In the consolation final, Kitimat B broke a 5-5 tie early in the third, but Cassiar tied it up on a disputed goal midway through the third period when Kitimat claimed the scoring shot went off the goal post behind Shetstebloff. Kitimat went right back down the ice and scored immediately, with Jerry Choinicki getting the winner when he tipped a hard shot over the Cassiar goalie's shoulder.

Scoring for Kitimat B were Choinicki, Chris Kuhn, Doug Linton, Brad Riley with two and Steve Nelson with two.

Terrace beat Cassiar 8-5 in their semifinal game, with Richey and Dempster both getting hat tricks in the game. Cassiar led 3-2 after the first period but Terrace got two power-play goals in the second period on their way to the win. Thomson and Kolner also scored for Terrace, while Guy Gregor scored two for Cassiar.

In Kitimat's semifinal, they beat their B team 10-0 with Al Skender getting the shutout. John Aiken, Rick Wakita, Dan Fournier and Stacey Smeader scored two apiece for Kitimat, with Lee Marleau and Owen getting the others.

Terrace Omineca won their round-robin division with a 3-0 record, followed by Kitimat B with two wins and a loss, Terrace Chrysler juvenile reps with a win and two losses and Prince Rupert with three losses.

Kitimat A won their round-robin with three wins, followed by Cassiar with two wins and a loss, Hazelton with a win and two losses and Terrace B with three losses.

ROUND-ROBIN ROUNDUP:

Kitimat A 9 Terrace B 2
Owen, Smeader and Aiken scored two goals each and Ron Wakita, Marleau and Rick Wakita scored for Kitimat in their decisive win over Terrace B in the tournament opener. Jim Rigler and Bruce Cameron did the Terrace scoring.

Omineca 10 Kitimat B1
Richey had the hat trick for Terrace as they beat their best opposition in their opening game. Dempster and Jim Kolner had a pair of goals each and Legouffe, Darryl Mallett and Larry Swanson got singles for Terrace, while Mark Zelinsky scored the only Kitimat goal.

Cassiar 11 Hazelton 4
Bob Yannaeker had three and Johnny Drzimotta scored twice for Cassiar as they thumped Hazelton in Friday's final game. Ian Tremblay scored two for Hazelton in the loss.

Terrace Chrysler 7 Prince Rupert 2

Bruce Godfrey and Lyle Marleau each had a pair and Daryl Craft, Ken Newman and Rob Ebeling scored singles in Chrysler's only win, a walk over Rupert in Saturday morning's first game.

Kitimat A 12 Hazelton 1

Hazelton took a pounding for the second straight game as Rick Wakita scored three times and Ron Egan had two in Kitimat's second straight win. Other singles were scored by Stephanovicius, Owen, Aiken, Al Marleau, Fournier and Lee Marleau.

Cassiar 9 Terrace B 8

Terrace B had their best chance at a win in their game against a strong Cassiar team when Ivan Savard scored his second goal of the game 21 seconds into overtime to give Cassiar the win. Drzimotta scored four goals for the winners in the game.

Terrace got goals from Chris Reneerkins, who had three, Ron Smaha, who had two, Cameron, Rigler and Darryl Doroschuk.

Omineca 17 Prince Rupert 3

Omineca showed no mercy to a disappointingly weak Rupert team as they walked away from Rupert from the start. Richey had four goals, Rich Kolner had three and Tim Kolner, Thomson and Dempster had two each in the win. Singles came from Legouffe, Swanson, Dale Mason and Darryl Mallett.

Kitimat B 4 Terrace Chrysler 3

Barry Haight scored twice to lift Kitimat B past a determined Chrysler team. Randy Schooley and Mike Thom scored once each for the winners, while the juvenile reps got goals from Doug Christie, Ebeling and Colin Parr.

Kitimat A 15 Cassiar 3

Kitimat A took advantage of a flat Cassiar team, scored 10 goals in the first period and never looked back. Sylvain Gagnon had four, Rick Wakita, Owen and Brent Thompson had two each and singles came from Aiken, Smeader, Stepanovicius, Lee Marleau and Ron Wakita in the game.

Hazelton 9 Terrace B 7

Karry Wale had three and Ward Maitland had two for Hazelton, who ran up a big lead early and then hung on despite four goals from Emile Gagnon in the last half of the game for Terrace. Cameron had two and Don Tape scored the other for Terrace B.

Omineca 14 Terrace Chrysler 4

Darcy Mallett, Darryl Mallett, Rich Kolner, Dempster and Wideman each scored two as Terrace Omineca built an early lead and stretched it. Mike Larock, Thomson, Richey and Swanson all had singles for Omineca, while Terrace Chrysler got one each from Garry Donald, Lorne Lofroth, Ken Newman and Steve Turner.

Kitimat B 12 Prince Rupert 13

This game was called after two periods when Rupert displayed an unwillingness to continue. Rick Rothney scored four times for the winners. Clayton Harker and Thom had two each, and Riley, Nelson, Ken Holmes and Haight had singles.

Larocque rink wins Scott's ladies Canadian curling title

PRINCE GEORGE, B.C. (CP) — The statistics told one story and the cold logic of Penny LaRocque another at the Canadian women's curling championship.

The shooting percentages indicated that Cathy Shaw's foursome from Alberta made more shots in the title game Saturday, but in the end it was the preparation of LaRocque and her Nova Scotia quartet that was the difference.

Nova Scotia won its second straight Scott Tournament of Hearts when LaRocque, 47, a year-old post-graduate university student, calmly executed the most important shot of her 14-year career. She drew the button with the last rock in the final end to edge Alberta 5-4 in a brilliant-played final game.

"It's something that I've been preparing myself for ever since I started curling," said LaRocque. "I was very confident all game that I'd win because we weren't up tight."

Alberta made 77 per cent of its shots in the championship game and Nova Scotia 72.7 per cent. The difference was LaRocque, who blanked the ninth end on purpose in order to have last rock in the 10th.

Her final shot gave LaRocque an 84 per cent success ratio in the final game and the opportunity for the Nova Scotia rink to represent Canada in the Pioneer women's world championship April 3-9 at Moose Jaw, Sask.

Colleen Jones of Halifax won the Canadian title in 1982 after beating LaRocque in the Nova Scotia provincials.

"We were mentally prepared for this type of situation," said LaRocque. "We learned last year when we lost in the provincials that mental preparation is just as important as the physical part of the game."

LaRocque and her rink of third Sharon Horne, 39, second Cathy Caudle, 21, and lead Pamela Sanford, 24, were a picture of togetherness through the tournament, complete with wearing their sweaters during ceremonies prior to each draw.

"Camaraderie is as critical as shotmaking," LaRocque said. "Sharon's been with me four years, Cathy for three and Pam has fit in really well."

"Having a coach this winter was been an important aspect of our team success. I have a need to be a friend to the rest of my teammates. Having a coach allows me to be a friend, rather than a whip-cracker."

Greg Landry, a veteran of 14 years with the NFL's Detroit Lions and Baltimore Colts, completed 19 of 26 passes for 251 yards and two touchdowns.

Johnson ran away from the Washington secondary to catch 11 passes for 158 yards, including a 23-yard TD reception.

Allen was fired in 1977 after leading Washington Redskins for seven years.

Stars 13 Gold 7

Quarterback Chuck Fusina scored a touchdown and David Trout kicked two field goals to lead Philadelphia over Denver.

The Stars' defence put on a last-minute, goal-line stand to hold off what the fans in Mile High Stadium thought was going to be a winning Gold touchdown.

Bandits 21 Breakers 17

John Reeves passed for 358 yards and three touchdowns, including a 33-yard winning strike to Willie Gillespie, to lead Tampa Bay over Boston.

Reeves, who had a storied NFL career after leaving the University of Florida in 1971, completed 23 of 39 passes and connected with Gillespie with 10:17 remaining.

Invaders 24 Wranglers 6

Fred Besana fired two touchdown passes to Wyatt Henderson — including a 55-yard bomb in the first quarter — as Oakland defeated Arizona.

The crowd of 45,167 was the biggest of any NFL contest Sunday.

in Chicoutimi, Que., last week.

LaRocque and Horne timed shots all week to gauge changing ice conditions, the skip occasionally chewed bubble gum in order to relax and LaRocque used a whistle to guide her sweepers.

The smiles of victory by Nova Scotia before about 1,200 fans at the Prince George Coliseum were matched by the tears of defeat for Alberta second Sandra Rippel.

Rippel and lead Penny Ryan performed heroically for eight days in the absence of third Christine Jurgenson, sidelined by illness and replaced only by sweeper Sandy Joyce from the host club.

"This was my second straight Tournament of Hearts and I plan to make in three in a row next year in Charlottetown," said Rippel as she fought back more tears. "We were so close to making it all the way."

Jurgenson suffered from a viral ailment which affected her back and she had to helped up to the podium for closing ceremonies.

The Shelly Bildfell rink of the Territories finished in third position after losing to the Shaw rink in the semifinals Friday.

Nova Scotia and the Territories finished with 8-2 records but the Halifax rink was awarded first place because it had defeated Bildfell in the second draw.

Heather Kerr of B.C. and Patti Vande of Manitoba finished in a tie for fourth place at 6-4.

Tennis club meeting set

The Terrace Tennis Club will be holding an organizational meeting Wednesday night at 7:30 p.m. in the board room at the Terrace pool.

The meeting will be to organize this year's season and to elect officers for the club's executive this year. All interested tennis players should attend.

Quosnel rink wins Kermode

Steve Derkson from Quosnel won the Kermode Junior Bonspiel Sunday afternoon with a 10-6 win over Todd Latta in the A event final.

Derkson beat Mark Flaherty in the semifinal of the three-day event to make the A final, where he overcame an early 6-1 Latta lead to win the trophy. Latta beat Rick Latta in his semifinal match.

In the B event final, it was John Evans beating Wilf Wilson of Kitwanga 8-7 to take the event trophy. Evans beat Scott Kehl in his semifinal, while Wilson beat Darren Hoffos in his semifinal.

C event was won by Charlie Radford, who beat Tom Woodcock of Quosnel 7-6 in the event final. Radford beat Scott McIlmoyle to make the final, while Woodcock beat Shelley Nordstrom in his semifinal.

YOUR INDIVIDUAL HOROSCOPE

FOR TUESDAY, MARCH 8, 1983

What kind of day will tomorrow be? To find out what the stars say, read the forecast given for your birth sign.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You're inclined to rush things careerwise. Seek advice about the proper direction to take. Use ingenuity, not aggression.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Bold, innovative financial moves are indicated, but check with experts first. Timing is a factor. Researchers make wonderful progress.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) A friend prompts you to action, but consult with close ties about economic ventures that affect mutual security.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) A loved one gives you encouragement about a job matter. You can afford to take a risk now and then and now's the time to do so.

LEO (July 23 to Aug. 22) Don't make important decisions when angry. The answers you seek come in an unguarded moment. Travel leads to adventure.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22) You have some progressive ideas that you can safely act upon now. Entertain others, but avoid foolish expenditure.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Honey works better than vinegar with a close tie. A display of temperament will only bring out the worst in others.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Relations with a co-worker may be touchy, but ingenuity brings job successes and financial gain. Dare to be innovative.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You'll have a good time now if you refrain from overspending. Financial developments are favorable and romance is exciting.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19) A family member could get on your nerves, especially if you're overtired. Take time out for rest and relaxing pursuits.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18) Unexpected news comes from a friend. Be careful of whom you take into your confidence. Success comes for those who are low-key.

PISCES (Feb. 19 to Mar. 20) Close associates offer helpful advice about a career matter. Begin new projects. Accept an unusual assignment. Finances improve.

YOU BORN TODAY have financial acumen and would make a good fund-raiser for a cause. Your intuition is an asset to you in both business and creative endeavors. You should learn to follow your hunches. By temperament, you're well suited for an artistic career. At some point in your life you'll have to make the choice between idealism and materialism. You have advanced ideas and are capable of making your dreams come true. It would be a shame for you to give them up for the sake of security.

Yesterday's Cryptquip — TO STAY SOBER, WOULD-BE LAWYER PASSED UP BAR.

Today's Cryptquip clue: W equals I.

The Cryptquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

Nervy nephew

My wife (who is in her late 70s) has a nephew with no common sense. He threatens to come visit us, although we have told him he is not welcome.

Last year this fellow showed up (uninvited) when we were out for the evening. He picked the lock, made himself comfortable in the guest bedroom and stayed for several days.

My wife is not well. Her worry over him doing the same thing this year is causing sleepless nights for us both. How can we protect ourselves against this nervy pest? — Uncle Charles

Write to the nervy pest and tell him if he repeats last year's performance he will be arrested for breaking and entering.

10th TCHL tourney gives three days of action

Brooker wins Aspen downhill

ASPEN, Colo. (AP) — Todd Brooker, the fiery young skier from Paris, Ont., captured his second World Cup victory of the season Sunday by winning the downhill on Aspen Mountain by nearly a half-second over Italian Michael Mair.

Brooker, whose victory vaulted him into eighth place in the season downhill standings, was timed in one minute, 47.87 seconds. Mair came across in 1:48.24, while Austrian Helmut Hoeflechner was third in 1:48.54.

Austrian Harti Weirather took fourth in 1:48.68 and countryman Erwin Resch was fifth in 1:48.76.

Brooker, who won the final training run Friday, was reminded of his habit of posting the top training times and not winning the subsequent race. "I knew I had that streak going of winning training runs and not being able to win the race," said Brooker. "I wanted to end it."

"I tried as hard as I could today." The winner of a downhill at Kitzbuehel, Austria, in January, Brooker said the recent snowfall which forced a one-day delay caused him to change his race strategy.

"GO FOR GATES" "With all the loose snow, I knew I had to go right for the gates, to not set up for the turns as much," said Brooker. "I kept a tight line and it paid off."

Peter Mueller, the Swiss skier who won two downhill here last year but has been sidelined for five weeks with injuries, took sixth, followed by teammates Urs Raebler and Conradin Cathomen.

Cathomen earned one point, moving him within a point of downhill standings leader Franz Klammer of Austria with one event remaining at Lake Louise, Alta.

Klammer finished 13th Sunday and did not earn points.

Phil Mahre of Yakima, Wash., was ninth with a time of 1:49.08. Mahre earned seven points, boosting his lead to 28 points over Swede Ingemar Stenmark in World Cup standings. Mahre is seeking his third straight overall title.

"The doctors had a look at it at the Aspen clinic and they confirmed what I had thought," said Podboraki. "There are definitely some torn ligaments."

"It feels a lot like my knee did when I wrecked it for the first time at Kitzbuehel. After that injury it took me eight months to get back on my skis. The second time around it was only one ligament and it was reconstructed. I got back relatively quickly. It was a period of five months."

Podboraki did not know if he would attempt another comeback in 1983.

"It depends a lot on my surgery goes and then how the rehabilitation goes. It depends a lot on whether I get back on my skis sooner or later."

"If it is as bad as the first one, and I think it may be worse, I may not come back."

Ken Read of Calgary finished in 1:49.38, for 11th place.

A man's giant slalom is scheduled here today, with another GS set for Tuesday in Vail, Colo.

Graham changes luck Saturday

MONT TREMBLANT, Que. (CP) — Laurie Graham's days as a sluggish skier in practice who rises to the occasion on race day will be over if Currie Chapman, the Canadian women's ski team coach, has his way.

Graham of Inglewood, Ont., won her first women's World Cup downhill race in six years of trying Saturday, emerging from the shadow of teammate Gerry Sorenson, who had the fastest time in five consecutive training runs.

Anne-Flore Rey of France — another six-year World Cup circuit veteran — won her first giant slalom title on Sunday, beating out Maria Epplé of West Germany and Erika Hess of Switzerland.

Graham, who knew that

Sorenson of Kimberley, B.C., had not skied well, held her luck from the top to the bottom of the 2,535-metre Kandahar course to finish in one minute 32.53 seconds.

Swiss skiers Maria Walliser and Michela Figini finished second and third, in 1:32.93 and 1:33.52, respectively.

Training runs had gone typically well for Graham, 10th fastest in Friday's final practice run. Chapman said that destroyed the poor-practice, good-race myth.

"Now that she's done this, she's going to have a hard time ever convincing me again that she doesn't have to be in the top 10 in training," Chapman said. "She's not testing her limits at all in training."

Graham's victory was the only one by a Canadian woman this year. It came in the final downhill of the year, the first such event held in Canada.

During the 1981-82 season, Sorenson won two World Cup races and the world downhill championship.

Rey, 21, had a combined time of two minutes 22.48 seconds over the 1,320-metre Flying Mile course, which was hard and icy for the first heat, soft and fast for the second.

Eighteen of the 84 skiers, including the top three in the giant slalom points' standings entering the race — Tamara McKinney of the United States, Hanni Wenzel of Liechtenstein and Irene Epplé of Switzerland — slid off the slippery first-heat track.

For Maria Epplé, it was her best result of the year, and the 20 second-place points she earned moved her into second place in the standings with 55, behind McKinney, who has 72.

Hess earned 15 points to move into fifth place, one point behind Wenzel and Irene Epplé, who have 51. Rey earned 25 points for the victory to move into a sixth-place tie with Cindy Nelson of the United States. Both have 48 points.

Lynn Lacasse of Brossard, Que., was the top Canadian, 25th in 2:27.29. Andrea Bedard was 31st in 2:27.81.

Downhill specialists Sorenson and Graham finished 38th and 41st respectively.

Stats show reason for Sixer upset

Head coach Larry Brown of New Jersey opened a crumpled statistics sheet to back up his explanation for the Nets' surprising 112-106 National Basketball Association victory Sunday over Philadelphia 76ers.

The figures showed that everyone played well, Brown said, especially Buck Williams and Albert King who scored 22 points each. Otis Birdsong added 15, including two crucial field goals in the final two minutes.

Philadelphia's record fell to 50-9 as Moses Malone scored 15 points, 9.5 points below his average, and Julius Erving added 12, 12.2

George Gervin added 20 for San Antonio, 38-24 and leading the Midwest Division. Cliff Robinson had 25 points and World Free 23 for Cleveland, which fell to 16-45.

Mike Woodson came off the bench to score 22 points, one of eight Kansas City players to reach double figures. Terry Cummings led all scorers with 26 points for San Diego.

Bulls 106 Pacers 98 Reggie Theus scored 28 below his average. In other games-Sunday it was San Antonio Spurs 117 Cleveland Cavaliers 98, Kansas City Kings 144 San Diego Clippers 105, Chicago Bulls 106 Indiana Pacers 98, Washington Bullets 102 Atlanta Hawks 91, and Utah Jazz 110 Portland Trail Blazers 105.

On Saturday, it was New York Knicks 105 Boston 98, Los Angeles Lakers 102 Detroit Pistons 108, Cleveland 98 Dallas Mavericks 91, Seattle SuperSonics 126 Houston Rockets 103, Denver Nuggets 126 Milwaukee Bucks 120, and Golden State points and Quinn Dailey 20 for Chicago while Billy Knight had 19 for Indiana. Bullets 102 Hawks 91

Jeff Ruland, who led Washington with 25 points, scored nine points and Rick Mahorn grabbed eight rebounds as the Bullets grabbed the lead in the third quarter. The Hawks were led by rookie Dominique Wilkins' 17 points. Jazz 110 Blazers 105

John Drew scored 10 of his game-high 31 points in the fourth quarter to lead Utah.

Marchand fights for win

SUDBURY, Ont. (CP) — Defeat doesn't sit lightly with Denis Marchand and his young Quebec rink.

The 1980 Canadian junior curling champion skip was hanging on the ropes in the eighth end of a second-round match Sunday night against Saskatchewan at the Canadian men's curling championship.

Saskatchewan, skipped by Kirk Ziola of Estevan, had stunned the Quebecers' rink with a double takeout in the eighth to count three for a 7-4 lead.

But Marchand, whose rink averages under 22 years of age, played aggressively in the ninth and stole two in the 10th to take an 8-7 victory over the westerners.

"I thought the game was over when we got behind by three in the eighth end," said Marchand, 22, who has two members of his Canadian junior championship rink — third Denis Cecl and lead Yves Barrette — still with him. "We got more than we had expected."

It was the first game in the Labatt's Brier for the two rinks since they'd drawn a bye in the first round earlier in the day. In other second-round games, Ontario and British Columbia remained unbeaten after two games to stay ahead of Quebec and Alberta, both at 1-0. Rinks at 1-1 were the Territories, Manitoba, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, while Northern Ontario joined Saskatchewan at 0-1. Winless after two games are Prince Edward Island and Newfoundland.

Warriors 127 Utah 121. Spurs 117 Cavaliers 98. Artis Gilmore scored 23 points in three quarters and
